cold, which by repeated exposure, became quite obstinate. I was much troubled with hoarseness and bronchial irritation. After trying various remedies, without relief, I at last purchased a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. On taking this medicine, my cough ceased almost immediately, and I have been well ever since."—Rev. Thos. B. Russell, Secretary Holston Conference and P. E. of the Grand African District, M. E. public is anxiously waiting to see how long they will survive.

A BILL has been introduced in the from this.

THE Stillwater prison has a new warden and the Globe remarks: "Let us hope that the prisoners will be kind to him; for, truly, the path trod by the warden of Stillwater state's prison is a thorny one."

THE treasurer of Wright county was robbed of $3,885 just as he was placing the cash in his vault on the evening of Jan. 1st. He has replaced the sum without calling on his bond-men. No clue to the robbers has been obtained.

LOU MURRAY, who was pardoned a short time ago, returned to Philadelphia under an assumed name, and started an intelligence office at the corner of Eighth and Vine streets.

The police, however, decided to take no chances with him, and he was ordered to leave the city.

eight years, the official reports of the

THE Nebraska republicans have been looking up the records and find that the democratic Governor-Elect Boyd, of Nebraska, is not a citizen of the United States. The investigation is said to have shown that the father never took out final papers until last year, and that therefore Gov. Boyd—who was born in Ireland, came to this country at the age of ten, and was never naturalized—is not a citizen of the United States.

E. T. Champlin, of Blue Earth

house of representatives yesterday

Bankers Should be Careful.

S. A. Kean has been held to the grand jury for receiving money on deposit when he knew that his bank was insolvent. The complainant in this particular case was one Royer, says the Tribune, who claims that he deposited money only three hours before the bank closed its doors. Royer's attorney was very severe on Kean

when the case came up for hearing before Justice Hamburger in Chicago

yesterday. He said that S. A. Kean robbed Royer when he took his money knowing he was insolvent and could not pay it back, and he "should receive no more consideration than any other thief." He read a decision by the appellate court holding that a banker is presumed in law to know

at all times whether he is insolvent or not. The justice held to this view of the case, and said there was probably cause to believe that Kean knew he was insolvent when he took Royer's money. The case constitutes a good precedent. It behooves bankers whose banks are shaky to be careful how they receive deposits, for they lay themselves liable to criminal prosecution.

Among the many handsome young ladies who promenade the principal streets of Fresno none are trimmer, neater, or prettier than Mary Wilson.

She has a splendid form, is above medium height with large brown eyes brilliant auburn hair, elastic step and vivacious manner. She is highly educated, being a clever performer on many musical instruments. Mary is in her 22nd year. She is the daughter of a late wealthy ranchman in Stan-he left her $10,000.

Some months ago Miss Wilson met

Joseph Campbell, a young and good-looking man, said to be a Sacramento farmer. He is a tall, handsome brunet. Joseph admired

Mary, and sought her hand in marriage. Miss Wilson refused his offer, saying that she could take care of herself. Joseph persisted. The more

Joseph pressed his suit the higher became Mary's admiration for him.

She liked his perseverance.

Her heart at first thawed, and she consented to become Mrs. Campbell for the brief period of six months.

"Joe," said Mary in her most bewitching way, "I will marry you for six months. At the end of that time, if marriage is a failure, we will find it out and go our ways."

"No, I don't marry for six months.

I want to live with you always."

"I shall never live with a man always unless I can live with him happily," she replied.

Joseph finally consented to the six-months' plan. Last night Mary drew up the contract for the six-months' marriage. Joseph and she signed it, and they became man and

A Fatal Accident.

The Minneapolis Times contains the following account of a railroad accident which occurred in that city on Sunday evening:
At 7:30 o'clock last evening a North Pacific freight train, No. 10, wrecked on the main tracks of the line on First street north, just above Twentieth avenue, and resulted in the instant death of C. H. Davis, the fireman, while Charles Johnson, the engineer, was badly scalded about the legs. He jumped and thereby saved his life. The engine and four cars were completely wrecked, and the damage was run up into the thousands. The locomotive, after it left the rails, ran along on the ties for about 50 feet, when it turned to the left, crossed the double tracks and went over a four-foot embankment and ditch, landing on the railway of First street. About 50 feet farther north on the tracks, lay the tank and coal car of the engine completely turned over, while a flat car had from the head end of the train, two box cars in a more or less wrecked condition completed the pile.
Half way between the wrecked engine and the cars lay the dead body of C. H. Davis, the fireman. The body lay as it was found after the wreck, and was surrounded by a crowd of curious men and women from the neighborhood. It was terribly mangled and mangled, and the body was so badly crushed, and the brains were scattered for several yards along the track. The clothing had been torn to shreds, and the left leg was almost severed at the hip. The skull had been crushed, and the brains were scattered for several yards along the track. The clothing had been torn to shreds, and the left leg was almost severed at the hip. The skull had been crushed, and the brains were scattered for several yards along the track.

According to the story of one of the brakemen on the train, switch engine No. 331 was on its way to the yards in Northeast Minneapolis, and had just crossed the bridge over Twentieth avenue north, when the engine jumped the rails, and, although steam was at once shut off, it was forced along by the impetus of the long train behind it. When the main part of the engine went over the incoming track, both the engineer and fireman, blinded and scalded by escaping steam, jumped from the cab. The fireman jumped from the right side of the cab to the rails, and was run over by the tank and several cars, which continued on along the ties, and were wrecked 50 feet further north. John son, the engineer, though scalded about the legs, was taken to his home, where medical aid was summoned, and he is expected to recover. He could not be seen last night.
The broken rail which caused the accident was examined, and it was evident that the flat part of the rail, which rests upon the ties, had been broken for some time, for they had rusted clear through, while the top part was newly broken. The track had been used in the afternoon, but the broken rail had not been noticed. Davis, the dead fireman, was about 26 years of age, and had been employed by the road for some time.

BRAINERD, Minn., Jan. 6, 1891.
Brother Knights: Again has death entered our Castle Hall and laid his cruel hands upon another of our beloved brothers, just when the old year had risen to lay aside his mantle and welcome in the new year, the dread messenger came and called from us forever our honored brother, Fred G. Sundberg, and we bow in humble submission to the will of our Heavenly Father, who doeth all things well. Our brother has gone, but his memory lives. In the death of our brother, this Lodge and the order universal have lost an honored member, the city and community an esteemed citizen, and the family a respected and loving husband and father. Let us, as a Lodge, by this sad visitation, remember that we too are but mortal and must soon follow in the footsteps of our beloved brother. May we all be ready when the summons comes, to lay off the cares and willingly give up the joys of this life for a better and more blessed life hereafter.

To the family of Brother Sundberg this Lodge extends its sincerest sympathy in this, their hour of great affliction. May an unfeeling trust in God and a risen Christ, and the hope of a resurrection be their comfort and support.
The Master at Arms will see that this Castle Hall is appropriately draped and the Keeper of Records and Seal will spread this memorial upon the records of the Lodge, and transmit a copy of the same to the family of the deceased brother, and also copies to the city press.

A Fatal Accident.

At 7:30 o'clock last evening a Northern Pacific freight train was wrecked on the main tracks of the line on First street, just above Twentieth avenue, and resulted in the instant death of C. H. Davis, the fireman, while Charles Johnson, the engineer, was badly scalded about the legs. The engine and four cars were completely wrecked, and the damage will run up into the thousands.

The locomotive, after it left the rails, ran on for a few feet, and then fell into the ditch, where it landed on its side, and was completely wrecked. The engine and four cars were completely wrecked, and the damage will run up into the thousands.

Half way between the wrecked engine and the cars lay the dead body of C. H. Davis, the fireman. The body lay on its back, and the head was crushed, and the brains were scattered for several yards along the track. The clothing had been torn to shreds, and the left leg was almost severed from the body.

The dead body of the fireman lay on the ground, and was surrounded by a crowd of curious men and women from the neighborhood. It was terribly mangled, and present at the scene of the accident. The skull had been crushed, and the brains were scattered for several yards along the track.

CASTLE HALL, WHITE CROSS LODGE No. 30, K. of P.
Brother Knights: Again has death entered our Castle Hall and laid his cruel hands upon another of our beloved brothers, just when the old year had risen to lay aside his mantle and welcome in the new year, the dread messenger came and called from us forever our honored brother, Fred G. Sundberg, and we bow in humble submission to the will of our Heavenly Father, who doeth all things well.

Our brother has gone, but his memory will live in the hearts of the footstepers of our beloved brother. May we all be ready when the summons comes, to lay off the cares and willingly give up this life for a better and more blessed life hereafter.

To the family of Brother Sundberg this Lodge extends its sincerest sympathy in this, their hour of great affliction. May an unflinching trust in God and a risen Christ, and the hope of a resurrection be their comfort and support.

The Master at Arms will see that this Castle Hall is appropriately draped and the Keeper of Records and Seal will spread this memorial upon the records of the Lodge, and transmit a copy of the same to the family of the deceased brother, and also copies to the city press.

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN

PATENTS

A pamphlet of information and abstract of the laws, showing how to obtain Patents, Caveats, Trade

Marks, Copyrights, and Inventions, is sent free to all who send for it. It is called the "No.

9" High Arm Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine. The "No. 9" was endorsed for first place by the experts of Europe at the Paris Exposition of 1889, where, after a severe contest with the leading machines of the world, it was awarded the only Grand Prize given to family sewing machines, all others on exhibit having received lower awards of gold medals, etc. The French Government also recognized its superiority by the decoration of Mr. Nathaniel Wheeler, President of the company, with the Cross of the Legion of Honor.

The "No. 9" is not an old machine improved upon, but is an entirely new machine, and the Grand Prize at Paris was awarded it as the grandest advance in sewing machine mechanism of the age. Those who buy it can rest assured, therefore, of having the very latest and best.

county, was elected speaker of the

Bankers Should be Careful.

this particular case was one Royer,

robbed Royer when he took his money knowing he was insolvent and

how they receive deposits, lest they

secution.

Took a Husband on Trial.

From the San Francisco Chronicle.

ladies who promenade the principal streets of Fresno none is trimmer, neater, or prettier than Mary Wilson.

in her 22d year. She is the daughter of a late wealthy rancher in Stanislaus County. When her father died

he left her $10,000.

Some months ago Miss Wilson met

Joseph Campbell, a young and pre-possessing man, said to be a Sacra-

some brunette. Joseph admired

riage. Miss Wilson refused his offer,

saying that she could take care of

became Mary's admiration for him.

She liked his perseverance. Her heart at first thawed, and she consented to become Mrs. Campbell for the brief period of six months.

six months. At the end of that time,

if marriage is a failure, we will find it out and go our ways for six months.

"No, I don't marry you always."

"I want to live with you always."

pily," she replied.

months' plan. Last night Mary drew up the contract for the six-

wife. The contract is said to be very binding, and expressly states that if Joseph gets drunk during the six months the document is null and void. Mary's friends hope that at the end of the time the obligation may be renewed, and that married for six months may be married for ever.

A Remarkable Weapon.

The German press is discussing at length the merits of a new French repeating air rifle, called the "miracle gun." The rifle was invented by M.

Paul Giffard of Paris, the original projector of the Parisian pneumatic it is described thus: "The weapon is light, much lighter than any of the air rifles now in use. It resembles the magazine gun in that a steel cartridge about a span and a half long and as thick as a man's thumb is attached to one barrel by means of a screw. This cartridge contains 300 shots, which can be discharged as rapidly or slowly as a man desires. Since neither powder or any other explosive, supplies the expelling force no smoke and no flash accompany the discharge."

Why Cough.

When a few doses of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral will relieve you, try it. Keep it in the house. You are liable to have a cough at any time, and no remedy is so effective as this world-renowned preparation. No household, with young children, should be without it. Scores of lives are saved every year by its timely use.

A Fatal Accident.

At 7:30 o'clock last evening a Northern Pacific freight train was wrecked on the main tracks of the line on First street north, just above the intersection of the tracks with the street, in the instant death of C. H. Davis, the fireman, while Charles Johnson, the engineer, was badly scalded about the legs. He jumped and thereby saved his life. The engine and four cars were completely wrecked, and the damage will run up into the thousands. The locomotive, after it left the rails, ran along on the ties for about 50 feet, when it turned to the left, crossed the street and went over a four-foot embankment and ditch, landing on the railway of First street. About 50 feet farther north on the tracks, lay the tank and coal car of the engine completely turned over, while a flat car had found its way half over the tank, and two box cars in a more or less wrecked condition completed the pile.

Half way between the wrecked engine and the cars lay the dead body of C. H. Davis, the fireman. The body lay as it was found after the wreck, and was surrounded by a crowd of curious men and women from the neighborhood. It was terribly mangled, and presented a sickening sight. The skull had been crushed, and the brains were scattered for several yards along the track. The clothing had been torn to shreds, and the left leg was almost severed from the body at the thigh. Coroner Towers, after viewing the body, ordered the remains removed to Connelly's morgue, where they will be kept until a request will be necessary.

The dead fireman has a brother employed in the general offices of the Northern Pacific, in St. Paul, and another who is in the employ of the company at Brainerd. Both were last night notified by telegraph of their brother's death.

According to the story of one of the brakemen on the train, switch engine No. 321, which was wrecked on the tracks, had been used for some time, and had just crossed the bridge over Twentieth avenue north, when the engine jumped the rails, and although steam was at once shut off, it was forced along by the impetus of the long train behind. When the main part of the engine went over the incoming track, both the engineer and fireman, blind and scalded by escaping steam, jumped from the cab. The fireman jumped from the right side of the cab to the rails, and was run over by the tank and several cars, which continued on along the ties, and wrecked 50 feet further north. Johnson, the engineer, though badly scalded about the legs, was taken to his home, where medical aid was summoned, and he is expected to recover. He could not be seen last night.

The broken rail which caused the accident was examined, and it was evident that the flat part of the rail, which rests upon the ties, had been broken for some time, for they had rusted clear through, while the top part was newly broken. The track had been used in the afternoon, but the broken rail had not been noticed. Davis, the dead fireman, was about 25 years of age, and had been employed by the road for some time.
